Wished He Had.
Jim Wells paid a visit to old Lawyer Collingwood one morning and told him he wanted to get a divorce from his wife.

"Oh, nonsense, Jim!" said the lawyer, gazing at the enraged young man. "You don't want a divorce from Nancy. Why, it was only about two months ago you told me you were so much in love with her you could eat her."

"Well, got darn it," said Jim, terribly in earnest. "I wish I had eat her!"—National Monthly.

PROFIT BY THIS

Don't Waste Another Day
When you are worried by backache:

By lameness and urinary disorders—
Don't experiment with an untried medicine.

Follow Grants Pass people's example.
Use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here's Grants Pass testimony. Verify it if you wish:
William Harvey, 621 N. Eighth St., Grants Pass, says: "I have never found a medicine for backache and kidney disorders as reliable as Doan's Kidney Pills. They have done one of my family so much good, who a few years ago went through a terrible siege of kidney disorders, that I used them. I have always taken Doan's Kidney Pills since whenever I have felt the need of a kidney medicine and have received just as good results."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Harvey had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

HARVARD FOOTBALL CAPTAIN TO COACH U. C. TEAM

New York, Aug. 23.—Eddie Mahan, last year's captain of the Harvard football team, and the man who shattered the dream of victory for Yale, left today for Berkeley, Cal., where he expects to show young backfield players on the eleven of the University of California how he did it back east.

Mahan expects to be placed in full charge of the backfield by Head Coach Andy Smith, a former Pennsylvania man. He told the United Press that it is his opinion that California wants to combine Harvard backfield tactics with Smith's strategy. This is California's second year in football since its return to the game from rugby, which had been played there for several years.

LOWER CALIFORNIA.

Rugged and barren, it was once a Land of Fable and Adventure.

Lower California, once a land of fable, romance and thrilling adventure, is one of the most sparsely settled regions of the Mexican republic. It has an area corresponding in size to that of the Atlantic coast peninsula of Florida, but nearly 700 miles more coast line owing to its extreme length of 700 miles. Florida has more than fourteen times as many people.

Varying in width from thirty to 150 miles, Lower California is a rugged, barren strip of land, with a mountainous backbone largely of volcanic origin. For nearly 200 years after its discovery by the Spaniards it was thought to be an island.

The southern portion of the peninsula has some rain, but the northern section is dry and arid, producing cereals, tobacco, grapes, cassava and sugar cane only after being thoroughly irrigated. The mineral resources are valuable and varied. Gold, silver, lead, copper, salt, gypsum, turquoises, opals and garnets are profitably mined. The silver mines of La Paz were worked by the Jesuits as early as 1700, three years after the famous padre, Salvatierra, established the first permanent Spanish settlement in the land.

The magnificent Magdalena bay, on whose protected waters, forty miles long and twelve miles wide, the Pacific fleets of the American navy have conducted their target practice in recent years, was discovered by Francisco de Ulloa in 1539 while on a voyage of exploration seeking the pearls and gold of the "Amazonas."

Lower California has two capitals—La Ensenada, with a population of 2,000, sixty-five miles by sea from San Diego, Cal., and La Paz, with 5,000 people, many of whom earn a livelihood from the port's pearl fisheries, which are among the most important in the world.

In addition to its pearl oysters the waters of Lower California yield sponges, tortoises, sperm and gray back whales, while in the bays and river mouths of the east coast many alligators are to be found.

Blamed the Men.
Jimmy was on his first visit to the country. Somehow he gained the impression that the hens laid everything about the place. He was discovered admiring a huge pumpkin.

"What is that, Jimmy?" his mother inquired, testing his knowledge of things agricultural.

"I don't know what it is," Jimmy replied. "All I know is that a hen laid it."—Indianapolis News.

He Hedged a Bit.
"Darling, if you had it to do all over again would you still want to marry me?"

"My dear, if I had it to do over again and decided to marry you would be the one I would select."—Detroit Free Press

How London Got Its Seagulls.

The seagulls which visit Regent's park and hold converse with their brethren in captivity are no doubt descendants of the birds that suddenly appeared in London about twenty-five years ago. Previous to this seagulls had never been seen so far inland, but the severe weather probably brought them in search of food. By a lucky chance for them as they hovered over Blackfriars bridge a rooster was pecking with a barrowful of sprats. People bought pennynorths to feed the birds, which after this not only came every day to the same spot, but spread the news to their distant relatives and friends, and so it was that London got its seagulls.—London Chronicle

Disobeying Orders.

The porter of a small hotel being attacked by illness while on duty his kind employer sent him upstairs to bed and called a physician. When the doctor came down after having attended his patient the proprietor accosted him.

"Well, doctor, how did you find him?" he asked.

"He's coming down with the grip," was the doctor's reply.

"If he does I'll send him back to bed. I warned him not to lug any more baggage today."—Exchange
